Lincoln was born 76 years ago to-day.

It has been decided finally that Alex. Botkin must go, as marshal of Montana. Alex couldn't buck against the whole administration.

The report comes from Washington that Mr. Cleveland will offer Mr. Bayard the position of secretary of state. It will be a credit to Mr. Cleveland if that report is true.

The Pittsburg Commercial Gazette declares: "Francis Murphy has done more real good in the temperance cause than all the political prohibitionists from Maine to the Golden Gate, and the people know it."

When such leading democrats as Randall and Hendricks go down south to hold political meetings and to ask what the new administration had better do, it is evident that they regard the soul of the party south of the Mason and Dixon line.

Colonel Vilas did a gracious thing when he moved that the rules be suspended and the memorial to congress, asking that General U. S. Grant be placed upon the retired list, be taken up and put upon its passage. It was passed unanimously.

The first sensible thing Mr. Cleveland is inclined to do is to ignore the old-time democrats and take up what little fresh blood there is in the democratic party. The second sensible thing he is inclined to do is to oppose the further coinage of the useless silver dollar.

The Dakota house of representatives has passed the woman suffrage bill by a vote of 29 to 19 and it will likely be approved by the council. Speaker Rice, in opposing the measure at the present time, expressed a fear that it would retard a division of the territory.

The song of the democrats who are anxiously waiting for the ides of March:

I want to be a P. M.,
And with the P. M.'s stand;
An ink-pad on the table,
A stamper in my hand.
And there before the letters
I'll work with glowing face,
And thank the great unterrified
For giving me the place.

On Wednesday both houses of congress met in joint convention to count the electoral votes. When all the votes were counted, Senator Edmunds, presiding over the convention, declared that Cleveland and Hendricks had received a majority of all the votes cast. The immense audience, most of whom were democrats, went almost wild over the announcement.

E. P. Roe, in the installment of his great story "An Original Belle," in the Current of Feb. 14, brings a new character actively into the field, who increases the interest of the narrative. He is a man who is both Northern and Southern in sympathy, and the ability of the novelist to deal with such a character as a figure of the war period, will be severely tested.

The hope of increasing the population Albuquerque, New Mexico, is thus happily expressed by the Journal of that city: "A physician said to us this morning that he had shook hands with seven bran new fathers in the last twenty days. Of course he charged them what was right for the shake, but it shows what a climate we have. This is only one doctor, too, out of twenty-four. Why, in ten years we will have 79,000 inhabitants."

The next session of the state conference of charities and correction will be held at Madison, in the state capitol, beginning on Tuesday, February 17, 1885, at 2 p. m. All persons officially connected with any charitable association in the state, whether public or private, are entitled to membership, and are invited to attend as members. All persons interested in the subjects to be discussed are invited to attend as visitors. The session will last two days.

A few evenings ago a Brooklyn minister who thought that it was his duty to demolish Colonel Ingersoll, gave a discourse on the good natured infidel, and had an audience of ten, including four reporters, and he gave them to understand that he would have exploded his arguments even if there had been only empty benches to listen. Mr. Ingersoll is still able to be around, and to all appearances, does not feel the effects of the Brooklyn discourse.

They have a second Peter Cartwright down Fort Worth, Texas. An elder recently whipped a bully for some out rageous conduct which the law wouldn't notice, and the Methodist newspaper of that town thus appreciatively describes the incident: "The elder took him one square blow between the lookers without stopping his pace, and it took twelve rowdies, three dippers of water and two quarts of whiskey to revive the patient and get him off the grounds."

The American Machinist, of New York sent to the members-elect of the Forty-ninth congress a circular asking for their opinions on the tariff, and the answer of Congressman-elect Caswell expresses the sentiment of the republicans of this country: "While a member of the house in the Forty-fourth to the Forty seventh congress, I sustained the protective policy, and I am now more convinced than ever that such policy is for the best interests of the country. On most articles there has been sufficient reduction, except on sugar. I shall favor a large reduction on that, if not a total repeal. Probably the reduction on wool was too great. I am sure, then, that I do favor a protective tariff, and that I do not favor a general and substantial reduction of the present tariff."

The work of the Patent office at Washington measures the progress of American endeavor in a most important direction. The superiority of this country in many branches of industry has been move largely due to the triumph of American inventors than to any other cause, and our patent laws, with all their faults, certainly stimulate invention to a high degree, and have contributed powfully to promote the industrial progress of the country. During the last year 20,397 patents were issued, and 116 reissued and of the patents issued 19,013 were to citizens of the United States. On the other hand 12,301 patents expired during the year, of which, doubtless, a very large proportion have never been found of practical utility. The Patent office, with all its benefits to the public, is not a burden to the country financially. Its revenue from fees last year exceeded its expenditures by $105,219.

The great American novel "Ramona," has been published by Roberts Brothers of Boston. It was written by Mrs. Helen Jackson, known to the literary world as (H. H.) Mrs. Jackson is one of the most vigorous writers in this country, and her Ramona is one of the most artistic and charming creations of American literature. One prominent female author says that it is as distinctive a piece of work this country has had since publication of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," and at the same time Ramona is beyond that classic mexquisite finish of style. Charles Dudley Warner thinks the story is one of the most charming creations of modern fiction; the Independent delares that the romance of the story is unresistablyfascinating; and the Atlantic Monthly says that Mrs. Jackson is a Murillo in literature. The book is beautifully bound, and sells for only $1.50.

THE SUPREME JUSTICESHIP.

The judicial campaign has opened at Madison, at least the discussion is going on as to the gentleman who shall succeed Justice Taylor on the supreme bench. His term will expire with the present year. He is 68 years old—old enough some appear to think to cast aside. The length of the term in ten years, and there are those who take it for granted that he will be too old to serve before a half of his new term expires, and therefore consider that he is not a candidate. Justice Taylor has not, in plain language, said whether he is a candidate for re-election or not, and his silence has been taken that he is not.

This condition of things, on the one hand, has led four candidates to enter the field—Levi M. Vilas (Dem.) of Eau Claire; S. D. Hastings, Jr., (rep.) of Green Bay; S. U. Pinney, (dem.) of Madison, and Fred. C. Winkler, (rep) of Milwaukee. All of these gentlemen are good lawyers, and likely Mr. Vilas, who by the way is a brother of Colonel W. F. Vilas, leads in point of ability.

But on the other hand, the friends of Justice Taylor claim that he is a candidate, and will try to secure the endorsement of the legislature as an independent candidate, with this understanding, however, that within two years after he shall have reached three score years and ten, he shall retire. There is a good deal of foolishness about this proposition, if any such has been made, and we hope that no such a bargain has been made.

Five years ago when the Gazette made a strong appeal in behalf of the claims of Justice Cassoday as an independent candidate, it argued strenuously in favor of abolishing all party warfare in selecting candidates for the supreme court. The Gazette claimed then and, it claims now, that the judiciary of the state should be lifted as far above politics as the Himalayas are above the sea. The democratic papers of the state which were in favor of running a democrat for the supreme bench, accused the Gazette of wanting to lift the judiciary above politics when it had a republican candidate but was against it when the democrats wanted a candidate of their own nominated. The Gazette stands by the position it held five years ago, and if Justice Taylor is not a candidate, or is not called out as an independent candidate, then the Gazette, for the sake of consistency, justice and fairness, will urge the candidacy of some democrat who is an able lawyer, and who will dignify the exalted and responsible position of justice on the supreme bench of the state.

The Nail Men.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 12.—The Western Nail association held a secret meeting here Wednesday, members from West Virginia, Ohio, and western Pennsylvania being present in full force. The object of the meeting was for the purpose of ratifying the card rate of $2.25 per keg, as advanced by the Wheeling mills, and to which the Pittsburg manufacturers are strongly opposed. The members declined any information as to the result, but it was learned that the Wheeling movement was defeated.

Reproved by the Naval Secretary.

BOSTON, Feb. 12.—A Washington special says: Secretary Chandler is following up the officers who signed the protest to congress against the passage of the vote of thanks to Commander Schley and Lieut. Emory for rescuing Greely. He has received explanatory letters from all but two of the officers concerned and has addressed to them a sharp letter, in which he dwells upon the impropriety of their conduct. His letter will be published in a few days.

Decided Guilty in Six Cases.

CHICAGO, Feb. 13.—The Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railroad about a week ago preferred charges of violation of the managers' agreement against the Chicago & Northwestern. After taking evidence, J. M. Hiland, arbitrator, decided them guilty on the six charges preferred, and fined them $20 on case No. 1, $40 on case No. 2, $80 on case No. 3, $100 on case No. 4, $100 on case No. 5, and $100 on case No. 6, making $440 in all.

Chinese and Paupers Must Go.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 12.—All the members of the Dominion parliament have received circulars from the executive of the trade and labor unions of Canada, declaring in effect that those bodies will not support any member, or any party not in favor of the prohibition of Chinese and pauper immigration into Canada.

FELL AT THE FRONT.

GEN. EARLE'S TROOPS MEET THE ENEMY IN THE SOUDAN,

And Win a Victory at a Great Cost—The Gallant Earle Killed at the Head of the Charge—Gordon's Fate.

LONDON, Feb. 12.—The war office has received the following information in a dispatch from Gen. Lord Wolseley: The fortified vessel in which Gen. Earle's detachment was proceeding up the Nile from Birti reached the pass above Dulka island Tuesday. The enemy appeared in great force at this point. After causing some demoralization among them by a heavy fire from the guns on board, Gen. Earle and a portion of his men landed, and attacked the Arabs, driving them back at the point of the bayonet and carrying the pass without the expenditure of ammunition. This course was adopted, in order to save the supply of cartridges, which had become greatly reduced. The enemy, emboldened by their comparatively slight losses in the conflict, rallied and made a fierce onslaught upon the English, firing with remarkable precision. They repulsed the troops with heavy loss, and captured the floating fort. Gen. Earle was killed while gallantly leading a charge. Three other officers were killed and four wounded. Eight of the men were killed and thirty-five wounded. The enemy's loss was considerable.

The Standard's correspondent with Gen. Earle's column sends the following dispatch, dated Dulka Island, Tuesday:

"The British force consisted of the Black Watch and South Stafford regiments, a squadron of hussars, two guns of the Egyptian artillery, an Egyptian camel corps, and a section of the hospital corps. The troops at once set to work to form a zareeba. Meantime, the enemy fired several shots from the high hills. Our pickets advanced and drove back the Arabs, who had descended the hills to make an attack. Night ensued, and guards were posted. Everything passed quietly during the night. Tuesday morning the troops formed and advanced to the enemy's position, marching in two parallel columns. Two companies of the South Stafford regiment and two guns occupied ground directly in front of the enemy to attract their attention. At 8 o'clock our guns opened the attack, and for some time a desultory fire was maintained. Meantime the main body of our troops was advancing steadily over almost impracticable ground, pushing the enemy before them, and seizing each successive ridge by a short, determined rush. The forward movement continued until the advanced troops reached the rear of the enemy, which rested on the river. This completed the movement whereby the rebels were surrounded. The enemy's position was a very strong one. It was one of rocky, broken ground, and strengthened by loop-holed walls, from which they maintained a heavy, well-directed fire.

"Then Earle ordered the Black Watch regiment to carry the enemy's position at the point of the bayonet. To this the regiment responded gallantly. The pipes struck up enlivening airs and the brave soldiers, cheering in response, moved forward with steadiness and valor to the work before them. The enemy was unable to stand the shock of the English advance, and the gallant charge called out the triumphal admiration of the commanding general. From loopholes in the rebel ramparts shots were fired continuously, but the gallant Black Watch advanced without dread, scaling the works in their almost impregnable front, and drove with their bayonets away from their shelter the wavering foe.

"Unhappily, at the very point of victory Gen. Earle fell while gallantly leading his command. The cavalry, meantime, had pushed beyond the scene of conflict and captured a camp three miles in the rear of the field of battle, and before the Black Watch had captured the main position of the enemy.

"While the main attack was being made, the Stafford regiment was directed to seize a high, rocky hill which Arab riflemen stoutly defended. The enemy clung to the position desperately, and disputed the ground inch by inch; but the Staffords would not be denied. They finally drove the enemy from the hill.

"This brought the battle of Korbekan to a close. It was gallantly contested from first to last. The rebels consisted of the Monassir and Robatab tribes and a number of dervishes from Berber.

"It is impossible to judge the number of the enemy, owing to their extended position and the rocky nature of the ground. The rebel leader from Berber, together with several emirs, is among the killed. The number of fugitives escaping was very small. The wounded were brought into camp. The force will advance some miles further Thursday. The guns spiked by Col Stewart were found buried at Birti."

The government has received proposals to build a railroad from Suakim to Berber at the rate of twenty miles per day, if guaranteed military protection in the work.

Two evening papers bitterly attack Mr. Gladstone for roaring with laughter at "The Candidate," the play at the Criterion Tuesday night, while telegrams were arriving announcing Gordon's murder, and how Arabs tossed Khartoum babes on spear points. One paper adds the original reference of Nero fiddling while Rome was burning.

Lord Carlingford having resigned his office as lord of the privy seal, Mr. Gladstone has tendered the appointment to the earl of Rosebery, who it is known will accept. The morning papers unanimously approve the appointment, and generally express the opinion that Earl Rosebery's accession to the cabinet will tend to strengthen the unity of the empire and to preserve the colonies.

Still Hoping for Gordon's Safety.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—There is still slight ground for hope that Gordon is alive. The accounts of newspaper correspondents come from a common native source. No witness of the death of Gen. Gordon is mentioned.

With Gen. Gordon were Hauzal, the Austrian vice consul, and twenty Greeks, and Levantine merchants. A firm at Alexandria for whom the Greeks had been acting as agents do not believe the story of the massacre at Khartoum. It is known the Mahdi holds fifty Greeks prisoners in camp at El Obeid, and that the are well treated.

In reply to inquries, Gen. Wolseley telegraphs he has no more authentic news than that brought to Korti by Col. Wilson.

The President-Elect at a Reception.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 12.—The reception given by Governor Hill, Wednesday evening, was a most brilliant affair. The governor's military staff assisted in the entertainment of the guests. Among those present was President-elect Cleveland. Letters of regret were received from Samuel J. Tilden, Horatio Seymour, Ex-Governor Cornell, and other prominent men.

Great Discovery.

Mr. Wm. Thomas, of Newton, Ia., says: "My wife has been seriously affected with a cough for twenty-five years, and this spring more severely than ever before. She had used many remedies without relief, and being urged to try Dr. King's New Discovery, did so, with most gratifying results. The first bottle relieved him very much, and the second bottle has absolutely cured her. She has not had so good head for thirty years."

HEARTLESS AND CRIMINAL.

Charges of Inhuman Conduct Against a Lighthouse Keeper and Others.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Feb. 12.—Facts have just transpired in connection with the loss of the American schooner Arcana, which did not appear in the recent inquest on the death of members of her crew. It is said the lighthouse keeper and his brother and the survivors heard the cries of the mate for almost ten hours, but the village was not informed until the next morning. Immediate action would probably have saved the crew. One young man was found sitting on the steps of the lighthouse frozen to death. Another was lying on the wharf, where he had walked until he dropped. The mate was in the cellar of the old house, where he had walked as long as he could, and then must have crawled about on his knees, for his trousers and drawers were worn through. The facts have just been laid before the government.

BAYARD NOT INVITED

To Take a Place in the Cabinet—The Report Denied.

CHICAGO, Feb. 12.—The Times, referring to the report that Bayard had been offered the portfolio of secretary of state in Cleveland's cabinet, publishes a special from Albany, N. Y., positively denying that Mr. Cleveland has written to Bayard or any one else offering them a cabinet office.

Civil Service Reform.

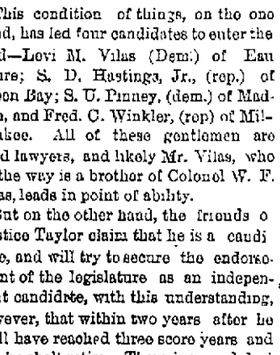

WASHINGTON CITY, Feb. 12.—Just before the adjournment of the senate a communication was received from the president, submitting the second annual report of the civil service commissioners. In his letter of transmittal the president congratulates the country upon the success of the committee's labors, commends the subject to the favorable consideration of congress, and asks for an appropriation to continue the work of the commission.

The report says 6,347 persons have been examined, of whom 4,141 passed, and 2,522 received appointments, all of whom have been satisfactory officials. No discrimination was made on account of politics or sex, 822 women having been examined. The report advises father legislation modeled upon that of New York, and declares the result of the test so far to be to prove the practicability of civil service reform on the line provided for by the present law. The positions now included and classified embrace besides the original 14,000 places 6,000 clerical employes of the past office and 5-7 of the customs officials.

Took a Ballot for Luck.

SPRINGFIELD, Ills., Feb. 12.—None of the new-found legislators arrived Wednesday, and when the house and senate met in joint session no quorum was present. The Democrats, however, insisted on a ballot for senator and went through the form of one. During the roll call the Republicans left their seats. The ballot resulted 75 for Morrison, 28 less than a majority of a joint quorum of the two houses. The reason given for insisting on a ballot was that the law was imperative that the first ballot should be taken on a fixed day, and the legal status of the senator elected would be affected if there was a violation of the law.

FINAL AND FORMAL.

CONGRESS IN JOINT SESSION PERFORMS THE LAST ACT

In the Count of the Votes Cast for President and Vice President—Scene in the Chamber—Objecting to Edmunds' form of Declaration.

WASHINGTON CITY, Feb. 12.—The last formula in the somewhat tedious process of electing a president and vice president was gone through with Wednesday in a perfunctory way, and at last it may be said that the election is over. In the presence of not less than 2,500 people, besides the nearly 400 senators and representatives in attendance, the electoral vote of the various states were formally canvassed, and it was officially announced that Grover Cleveland, of New York, and Thomas A. Hendricks, of Indiana, have been duly elected respectively president and vice president of the United States for a term of four years, beginning March 4, 1885.

Twelve noon was the hour fixed for the ceremonies to begin. Half an hour before that time the gallery was full of spectators, all on the alert for whatever might turn up of an interesting or exciting nature. Some persons imagined that the votes of certain states would be objected to on technical grounds, while others thought Belva Lockwood, who filed her protest in the senate a few days ago, would be on hand to furnish entertainment. But none of anticipations were realized. From the start the dove of peace, bearing the olive branch, seemed to hover over the assemblage, and nothing occurred to disturb the placid flow of the proceedings.

There was a very full attendance in the house when the hands upon the marble face of the big clock approached the hour of noon. Two or three dozen ladies were seen scattered about the hall, members gallantly yielding them their seats. The space behind the outer row was completely filled with ladies and gentlemen who counted themselves fortunate in having been favored with invitations to the floor of the house. Every available foot of standing room was occupied. Many of the ladies were richly attired, the grace of their presence contributing in no small degree to make the scene an attractive one. The diplomatic gallery was well filled, representatives from the various continents and the far-off isles of the sea being interested lookers on to see how we choose our rulers.

Precisely at 12 o'clock Blackburn, the speaker pro tem, brought down the gavel with unwonted vigor and announced "The senate of the United States."

Thereupon all the members rose to their feet and stood in solemn awe while the grave and reverend senators marched down the center aisle. To accommodate the guests of the house the members had surrendered the two rows of seats immediately in front of the speaker's desk, and an extra row of comfortable-looking arm-chairs had been placed in a semi-circle within the area. At the head of the procession was Capt. Bassett, whose hair has grown as white as snow during his half century of service as messenger of the senate. Then came the president, Edmunds, grim and stately, his "frosty poll" covered by a black skull-cap. Upon his left flank was Gen. McCook, secretary of the senate. Then came the senators, two and two, and took the seats assigned them. Mr. Edmunds ascended the "pulpit" and was graciously bowed into the speaker's chair by Mr. Blackburn, who took a seat at his left elbow. The presiding officer rapped with the gavel. The members of the house dropped into their seats, except a hundred or so of them who had no seats and were compelled to stand around in a miscellaneous sort of way. Then congress in joint session plunged briskly into the business of the hour.

The tellers on the part of each house were in their places at the clerk's desk. Just below the speaker's platform, at the right, sat Senator Hoar, of Massachusetts, and Representative Clay, of Kentucky, and at the left Senator Pendleton and ex-Speaker Keifer, both of Ohio. Before them were pen, ink, and tally sheets, and everything was in readiness for business. A hush of expectancy quieted the noise of the crowded hall as Mr. Edmunds opened, with the due announcement of what he was doing, the duplicate packets received respectively by mail and messenger, which contained the returns from the state of Alabama. Handing them to the two tellers upon the right, Senator Hoar arose, adjusted his gold spectacles and proceeded to read from Alpha to Omega the exceedingly prosy document.

The form prescribed by law is of course painful in its particularity with whereases and oft-repeated phrases that are wearying to the most patient listener. Everybody mentally responded with a fervent amen when Senator Sherman arose and moved that only the essential essence of the returns giving the votes cast be read, and the suggestion received unanimous approval. Under the new arrangement the states were worked off at the rate of nearly one a minute. As the returns were handed down the tellers each in turn announced the vote as certified, merely adding that the certificates appeared to be in due form, with the great seal of the state appended.

Blackburn closely eyed Edmunds as the latter took the sealed packets from the boxes in which they had been kept, and deftly cut them open with a knife. He evidently did not intend that the old Vermonter should succeed in any contemplated feats of prestidigitation by which he might try to furtively extract the certificates from New York, Kentucky or Texas and slip in others that would give the votes of those states to Blaine. The Democrats in the assemblage appeared to be perfectly willing to trust this to Blackburn, feeling assured that he would catch the old man if he should attempt any such tricks. So the reading went on to the end, with scarcely a ripple of excitement, and absolutely nothing arising to the magnitude of a sensation. It would be unfortunate for the average crowd of spectators, however, if such an occasion should furnish nothing in the nature of amusement.

Each of the four tellers managed to make ludicrous blunders that spiced the dull monotony of the formal proceedings. At the very outset Senator Hoar read from one of the certificates "United States of Alabama," which elicited several cries of "What country is that?" Next there was a laugh at the expense of Senator Pendleton, who read that Maine had cast "six votes for John A. Logan, of Indiana," for vice president. Calls from the floor told him of his mistake, and he corrected the residence of the untamed warrior. Then Mr. Keifer outdid them all. In reading the state of Maryland he reported "Six votes for Grover Cleveland for president of the United States." Instantly a dozen voices were heard exclaiming in discordant chorus, "What's that?" "How many votes for Maryland?" Mr. Keifer gave his eye-glasses a hitch, took a fresh look at the figures, and announced, "Eight votes for Grover Cleveland." This made everybody laugh, amid which could be heard shouts of "No cheating;" "Fair count;" "Eight to seven is played out." Clay excited some levity by announcing merely that New York had cast "thirty-six votes for Grover Cleveland and thirty-six for Thomas A. Hendricks." "What for!" inquired several of the watchful listeners. He answered the conundrum by restating the case, with the respective offices to which by the votes of that state had been thrust upon these two eminent citizens of the republic.

The tellers made the footings after considerable trouble, apparently, the figures refusing to "add up" satisfactorily, but the task was completed at last, the sheets passed around and signed, the result announced by Senator Hoar, and the papers handed to Presiding Officer Edmunds, who made the following announcement, after which the senate retired to its chamber, and the routine of laws took up its course again:

SENATORS AND GENTLEMEN OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES: The tellers have reported to the presiding officer the state of the vote, from which it appears that Grover Cleveland, of the state of New York, received 219 votes for the office of president of the United States; that James G. Blaine, of the state of Maine, received 182 votes for the same office; that Thomas A. Hendricks, of the state of Indiana, received 219 votes for the office of vice president of the United States; that John A. Logan, of the state of Illinois, received 182 votes for the same office; wherefore, I do declare that Grover Cleveland, of the state of New York, has received a majority of the votes of the whole number of electors appointed, as they appear in the certificates read by the tellers and so appears to have been elected president of the United States for the four years commencing on the 4th of March, 1885, and that Thomas A. Hendricks, of the state of Indiana, has received a majority of the votes of the whole number of electors appointed, as they appear in the certificates read by the tellers, and so appears to be elected vice president of the United States for the four years commencing the 4th of March, 1885, and the president of the senate makes this declaration only as a public statement, in the presence of the two houses of congress, of the contents of the papers opened and read on this occasion, and not as possessing any authority in law to declare any legal conclusion whatever."

Upon the retirement of the senate Clay of Kentucky, offered a concurrent resolution that a committee of three representatives and two senators be appointed to notify the president and vice president elect that they had been duly elected president and vice president of the United States for the term of four years from the 4th of March 1885 and that the president of the senate make certificates of election for each and that duly authenticated copies be delivered to Messrs. Cleveland and Hendricks by the committee.

Hohman said that unless the precedents were uniform he thought it inexpedient to provide for the certificate. There was danger, as shown in the experience of the past few years, in establishing precedents.

Clay said the precedents were not uniform, but this course had been pursued on the election of Washington, Harrison, Lincoln, and Grant on their first terms, and perhaps others.

Holman moved to strike out that portion of the resolution relating to the certificates of election, and the amendment was adopted, and the concurrent resolution as amended agreed to.

When the senate reached its chamber, the report of the tellers was again read by Senator Hoar, and Edmunds again made his declaration, closing with the statement that said declaration had no legal authority whatever. Conger and Ingalls dissented from the sentence and Conger offered a resolution declaring that the senate does not assent to the concluding declaration of the president of the senate in the announcement of the vote for president and vice president of the United States, made in the presence of the two houses of congress this day."

Hoar offered a resolution to the effect that the count having been duly made in the presence of the two houses, no further declaration was necessary. Both resolutions went over.

Senator Edmunds' manner of announcing the electoral vote was construed as supporting the claims of the Democrats in 1877, as to the manner in which the count shall be made, and as adverse to Republican claims and practice. His statement was greeted with Democratic applause and was a subject of general and ill-concealed dissatisfaction among the Republicans. The question will probably come up in the senate on the Hoar resolution, when Edmunds is expected to defend his position. In the meantime there is some talk, but it has taken no definite shape, of electing a presiding officer of the senate more in harmony with the Republican views of this matter.

Congress in Brief.

WASHINGTON CITY, Feb. 12.—The house Wednesday non-concurred in a portion of the senate amendment to the District of Columbia appropriation bill, and a committee of conference was named. The bill appropriating $100,000 for a public building in Kookuk, Iowa, was passed. The senate bill amending the revised statutes so as to authorize the issue of duplicate checks, when originals were lost or stolen, to the amount of $2,000, was passed. The present law limits the amount of such checks to $1,000. The postoffice appropriation bill was taken up and the appropriation for letter-carrier service increased from $4,100,000 to $4,535,000 after a sharp contest. The vote was 100 to 64.

The senate passed a bill providing permanent reservations for the Indians in northern Montana. It provides for locating the Pigan, Blood, and Blackfeet Indians on lands in northern Montana, which lands may be patented to them in severalty hereafter if congress so directs. Two hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars annuity is appropriated to enable the Indians to give up the chase and assist them in becoming an agricultural and pastoral people. Dolph's bill to repeal all the laws providing for the presumption of public lands and allowing entries for timber culture was discussed at length without action.

Methodist Book Concern.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—The first annual meeting of the book committee of the Methodist Book concern, appointed at the general conference in May last, was held here Wednesday. Amos Shinkle was appointed chairman and Rev. C. G. Clark, of the Maine conference, secretary. The members of the eastern section chose Gen. Clinton B. Fisk, of the New Jersey conference, chairman, and Rev. A. E. P. Albert, of the Louisiana conference, secretary. The western section selected Rev. D. F. Bardes, of the Michigan conference, chairman, and R. A. W. Bruhl, of the central "German" conference, as secretary. The annual meeting in 1886 will be held at Cincinnati. Among the conferences represented at Wednesday's meeting were: Maine, Troy, Wyoming, Pittsburg, Ohio, Washington, Indiana, western Iowa, Louisiana, Missouri, West German and California.

Complaining of Discrimination.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 12.—The commercial exchange, Wednesday afternoon, held a special meeting for the purpose of taking action regarding the practice of the railroads in discriminating against Philadelphia in the matter of freight. Resolutions were adopted condemning the discriminating policy of railroad companies, and inviting the co-operation of other commercial bodies to secure legislation having in view a more equitable adjustment of transportation rates.

Pensions of Gunboat Pilots.

WASHINGTON CITY, Feb. 12.—The house committee on invalid pensions has decided to report favorably a bill increasing the pension of pilots of the Mississippi river gunboats, who were injured in the service, to $30 per month.

Fine Art Collection at Auction.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—George I. Seney's magnificent collection of pictures, second only in value to that of William H. Vanderbilt, was on Wednesday ordered to be sold by auction on March 16. When the Metropolitan bank went to pieces last June its president, Mr. Seney, pledged his art gallery to the clearing-house as security for a loan of $250,000. The clearing-house now wants its cash and the pictures will be sacrificed.

More Canadian Volunteers.

TORONTO, Feb. 12.—Capt. F. Lyons has received a cablegram informing him that he has been gazetted for service in Egypt and ordering him to report immediately. He is captain of the Royal Bucks Militia company. Col. Tyrwhitt, M. P. for South Simcoe, has made application to the war office for permission to organize a Canadian regiment for service in Egypt. This is the fourth offer of Canadian officers for similar service.

Fighting in Tonquin.

PARIS, Feb. 12.—The government has advices that the troops in Tonquin have had three days heavy fighting in a defile, in the course of their advance toward Langson. The Chinese show great obstinacy, but the French advance slowly but surely. The losses, however, are heavy.

COOL CASE OF BLACKMAIL.

An Enterprising Law Student's Game Blocked.

BOSTON, Feb. 12.—Edward A. Achorn, aged 25, a student in the law office of the well-known attorney, Linus Childs, was arrested for a cool attempt at black mail. About a week ago he called at the house of Mrs. Annie Brady, 28 Edinboro street, and presented what he reported to be a warrant for her arrest for keeping a house of ill-fame and selling liquor without a license. He demanded $200 in settlement, and as she refused to pay he told her to come with him. They went to the New Marlboro hotel, where he got another fellow who represented himself as a bail commissioner, and they went through the formula of admitting to bail. Achorn walked home with the woman and then demanded $50. She told him to call again. He called Tuesday night and asked for $100. She agreed to pay him $50 on account, and as she was in the act of paying over the money the officers stepped from behind a door and arrested him. The decoy had been arranged by the woman.

The Appeal for the Cotton Fair.

WASHINGTON CITY, Feb. 12.—A committee representing the commissioners of forty-six states and territories at the New Orleans exposition will present a memorial to congress asking an additional appropriation of $500,000 to tide over the financial difficulties of the exposition. The memorial states that the $1,000,000 already appropriated by congress has been judiciously expended and the work accomplished could not in their opinion have been exceeded. It further sets forth that the faith of the government, while not technically promised to make the exposition a success, is morally pledged to do so, and unless it fulfills its plighted faith, will be subject to censure at home and abroad. As a matter of policy, too, the memorial urges this additional appropriation, stating that without it "all is lost," government loan, stock subscriptions, donations and all. The continuation of government aid means repayment to the government in whole or in part for its advances. The committee will have a conference with the president, and expect a favorable message from him urging the amount asked for.

Pennsylvania Grand Army.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 12.—In the second day's session of the convention of the G. A. R. a lengthy report from the committee on resolutions was submitted and adopted. The Mexican pension bill as well as the resolutions adopted by the Veterans' Rights Union, relating to the enforcement of section 1,754 of the revised statutes of the United States which guarantees rights and privileges to those who served during the late war under the United States, were indorsed. A memorial was prepared and read which will ask the legislature to appropriate $50,000 for the Marine hospital at Erie, Pa.

The convention concluded its work by the election of the following department officers: Department commander, Austin Curtin, of Centre county; senior vice commander, A. P. Burchfield, of Pittsburg; junior vice commander, T. J. Amsden, of Scranton; council of administration, E. G. Sellers, Amos Coar, J. T. Long of Philadelphia, J. F. Hunter of Pittsburg, W. Clark Johnson of Roxboro; quartermaster, Comrade Williams, of post 8, Philadelphia. Capt. Maloney, of Harrisburg, was appointed chief inspector; Thomas J. Stewart, of Norristown, assistant adjutant general, and I. J. M. Trimble, of Philadelphia, medical director.

Union Pacific Railway Payments and Dues.

WASHINGTON CITY, Feb. 12.—Commissioner of Railroads Armstrong has prepared a reply to the resolution, which passed the senate on the 4th inst., inquiring what amounts were due the United States on Dec. 31, 1884, from the Union Pacific railroad according to the rule established in the recent decision in the courts of claims. A statement appended shows that according to the rule of the court the amount due from the company on Dec. 31, 1882, is $987,456,00. For the year ended Dec. 31, 1883, there was due from the company excluding expenditures for new construction and equipment, $715,854,00. This amount was paid in full on June 25, 1884. The expenditures for new equipment for 1883 aggregated to $263,048, 25 per cent. of which—$56,762—was overpaid for that year under the rule established by the courts. The amount due for the year 1884 has not yet been ascertained, and cannot be ascertained until about the middle of March next.

A Congressman Takes a Wife.

RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 12.—Shortly before 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, Congressman William McAdoo, of the Seventh district of New Jersey, and Miss Lee Tardy, of Lynchburg, were united in marriage at Bonair, seven miles from Richmond. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. R. Holderly, of the Presbyterian church, in the parlors of the bride's brother-in-law, Col. James A. Augustine, in the presence of a number of invited guests. A reception followed the marriage, and in the evening Mr. and Mrs. McAdoo left Richmond for Washington. Telegrams from congressmen and United States senators congratulating the newly married couple and regretting their inability to be present were received.

DISASTER IN THE MINE.

THE FATAL GAS MAKES MORE WIDOWS AND ORPHANS.

Explosion in a Nova Scotia Pit Sends Thirteen Souls to Eternity—Recovery of the Dead—Hurt at a Fire—Boiler Explosion.

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 12.—The famous coal district of Pictou county has again been the scene of a deplorable catastrophe, involving the loss of thirteen lives, rendering nine wives and twenty-three children destitute, and causing serious interruption to the working of one of the richest collieries in this region. At 9:45 o'clock, Tuesday night, only a few minutes after the day shift of workmen had left the mine, and just as the night shift were beginning their labor, a terrific explosion occurred in the new slope of the Vale colliery, where operations were commenced a short time ago on what is known as the McBean seam. There were twenty-two men in the pit at the time, and but nine of them were gotten out alive. Immediately after the explosion, fire broke out, but water was poured down the shaft, which extinguished the flames after about two hours' work. John Greener, manager of the mines, with a rescuing party, then descended the slope, meeting with considerable difficulty, but pushing on perseveringly. About half way down seven of the miners were reached. All were unconscious and unable to move. They were carried to the open air as speedily as possible and soon recovered sensibility, though in their present condition a reliable story of their experiences cannot be obtained. In the meantime two others of the missing miners got out through another shaft some distance away, having only heard the report of the explosions, and were not injured in the least. The rescuing party returned to the pit and resumed their search for the remainder below, and after some hours came across the body of John A. Campbell, the deputy overman. Life was extinct, and the remains were horribly burned and charred. After this discovery the finding of the rest of the victims was comparatively short work, the searchers having apparently gotten into the immediate vicinity of the explosion. The bodies of twelve others were all found within a short distance of each other, and several of them, from the positions in which they were found, appeared to have been sitting down at the time of the disaster, and were hurled into eternity without a moment's warning.

Below is a complete list of names of the thirteen killed: Hugh S. Cameron, pump-engine driver, leaves a wife and two children; Philip McBett, stableman, leaves a wife; John A. Campbell, deputy overman leaves a wife and family; Daniel Kennedy, a miner, leaves a wife and a large family; Neal McKinnon, a miner, unmarried; Thomas Ryan, a miner, unmarried; Patrick Foley, of Westville, a miner, leaves a wife and two children; John Grant, a miner, leaves a wife and three children; John W. Fraser, a miner, leaves a wife and two children; Daniel McNeal, a miner, leaves a wife and large family; James Haggart, a miner, leaves a wife and family; James McLean, a miner, unmarried, said to have come from Brookfield, near Truro; John A. McEachern, a lad.

Several of the survivors were more or less burned. The cause of the disaster is supposed to have been a sudden outburst of gas, the presence of which was not dreamed of by any of those connected with the mines. The Vale colliery is owned by a Montreal company, and has lately been producing more coal than any other mine in the district, the average daily output being about 400 tons. The colliery is six miles from this town. The shaft where the explosion occurred is 2,000 feet from the surface. During the early morning a terrible scene presented itself as the dead and wounded men were brought to the pit's mouth, wives and children seeking their lost or maimed husbands and fathers.

Several Men Hurt at a Fire.

CHICAGO, Feb. 12.—A dispatch from Rochester, N. Y., dated Feb. 11, says: Fire broke out in the hop room of the Genessee Brewing company's building at about 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. The department responded promptly, but were unable to do much work on account of the cold, the thermometer being several degrees below zero, and the water mains being frozen. Soon after the fire was discovered, a terrific explosion occurred in the malt room, caused by rush of hot air from the hop room, which raised the roof and broke every pane of glass in the building. The following persons were injured: Frank Schrall and Martin Dietz, employes of the brewing company, burned about the head, face, arms and chest; Harry Kimball, a member of the Protective Fire company, burned about the face; Llewellyn H. Vanandt, fireman, slightly burned about the face and hands; John A. Walcott, fireman, slightly burned about the face; and Andrew Carle, member of the Active Hose company, who fell from a ladder and was seriously injured. He may die. The building was destroyed; probable loss $150,000."

Only Forty-Five Pounds of Steam.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 12.—A most frightful boiler explosion occurred Wednesday afternoon at what are known as Cumbler's quarries, about four miles and a half from this city. Christian Horn, white, and John T. Spencer, colored, were instantly killed, both bodies being horribly mangled. Peter Brown, another workman, had his right arm cut from his body by a piece of flying pipe. He will die. No cause has been ascribed for the accident, as there was but forty-five pounds of steam in the boiler with a slow fire. The accident has caused considerable excitement.

STABBED IN THE BACK,

TELLS THE STORY OF THE GALLANT GORDON'S FATE.

A Victim of the Treachery of the Pashas —How Khartoum Fell.

A Terrible Massacre, Accompanied with the Most Savage Atrocities—El Mahdi Almost Impregnably Fortified—Details of the Slaughter.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—It is officially announced that the following particulars have been learned concerning the fall of Khartoum. The rebels having gained access to the city by treachery, their entry caused a tumult in the streets. Gen. Gordon, while leaving the palace to learn the cause of the disturbance, was stabbed dead. A fearful massacre of the Christian population ensued, the barbarities perpetrated by the Arabs exceeding even the Bulgarian atrocities of the Russo-Turkish war. El Mahdi has caused the fortifications to be so strengthened that the English military authorities consider it almost impregnable. The Arabs brought with them into the city tons upon tons of arms and ammunition, beside the full fighting equipment.

All the London papers appear in mourning for Gordon. The Daily News in its editorial says that the age of chivalry revives in Gordon's history. The whole world feels a thrill of passionate grief at the Christian warrior's death. The Standard refuses to believe that Gordon is dead.

Following are details of the killing of Gordon and fall of Khartoum: The news is brought by Cols. Wilson and Wortley to Korti, where they arrived Tuesday. Cols. Wilson and Wortley had been stranded on an island in the Nile for several days and Lord Charles Beresford was dispatched with a force to their rescue. The force had a continuous fight coming down the Nile, but beat off their assailants with considerable loss. They obtained the facts from natives who escaped from Khartoum.

On the day of the capture, which is variously stated as the 26th and 27th of January, Gen. Gordon's attention was attracted by a tremendous tumult in the streets. He left the so-called palace or government building, in which he had made his headquarters, to ascertain the cause of the disturbance. Just as he reached the street he was stabbed in the back and fell dead. The tumult was caused by the mahdi's troops, who had gained access to the interior of the town through treachery, and who were soon in complete possession of the place, including the citadel. A fearful massacre of the garrison followed. The scenes of slaughter are described as surpassing the Bulgarian atrocities and rivalling the worst horrors of the Sepoy mutiny. Panic-stricken Egyptians were captured in flight and put to death with the most fiendish tortures. Some were transfixed with spears and left to bleed to death. Most of the victims were mutilated in a most horrible manner. Eyes were gouged out, noses slit, and tongues torn out by the roots. In many cases mutilated parts of the victims' bodies were thrust into their mouths while they were still living. The massacre included many non-combatants, and Egyptian women were subjected to the most shameful indignities. More than 100 women and young girls were given over to the Mahdi's followers to be used as slaves. After the slaughter, many Arabs were seen rushing around the streets with the heads of Egyptians impaled upon spears. The next night was spent in a saturnalia of blood and debauchery.

Gordon was among the first to fall; in fact, his death was the signal for the revolt which led to the capture of the city. Every Christian was hunted down and slaughtered. The most frightful enormities were commited. Neither sex nor age saved the unfortunates from death and terrible sufferings. At the signal of Gordon's death one of the pashas among Gen. Gordon's forces marched the garrison to the side of the town nearest Omdurman, saying a rebel attack was expected at that point. Meantime another traitorous pasha opened the gates at the other end and allowed the mahdi's troops to enter and they easily captured the town. The treacherous pashas feared, it appears, that with Gordon alive they could never induce the garrison to submit. Once he had fallen, the gates were thrown open to the enemy, and the government-house given to the flames. Then the Arab besiegers poured in in great hordes. Many of the survivors of the army of Hicks Pasha were in their ranks.

The letter recently sent by the mahdi to the English officers on Col. Wilson's steamer contained a postscript saying that it was the mahdi's first and last letter to the English, and that unless they submitted he would kill all the Kaffir dogs. The bearer of the letter, a dervish, urged the Egyptians on the steamer to join the mahdi's army, saying that God had sent the mahdi to convert the world, and that the mahdi intended to march straight to Stamboul. On the day after the steamer stranded, the mahdi's emir landed on the island and urged the British to surrender. Sunday evening, Hamid Bey, two skippers, and seventeen natives deserted the steamer.

The Chicago Fraud Trial.

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—At the trial of the election conspirators S. W. Fallis, a wood-engraver, fully identified the bogus ballots as printed from the engraving he was engaged to make, and separated them from the genuine by means of scratches and marks caused by his tools slipping. John Wynne testified that his voting number was ten. He voted for Leman and signed his name on the back of the ballot. Ticket number ten was produced in court and Wynne pronounced it a forgery. It contained the name of Rudolph Brand for senator, whereas he voted for Leman, and the name John Wynne on its back was not in his handwriting. Max Fries, bookkeeper for Hanscom & Co., testified that he heard defendant Mackin say to S. P. Wright he would like to have Brand's name substituted on the ticket to be printed for that of Leman.

Wreck on the Wabash.

ALTON, Ills., Feb. 11.—The east-bound express on the Wabash railroad was thrown from the track by a broken rail between Mitchell and Edwardsville Tuesday morning. The baggage-car, smoking-car, and one passenger coach were thrown from the track. The smoker and the other coach were filled with passengers, many of whom received severe bruises, but no serious injuries. The ladies' coach was thrown on its side and took fire, but the flames were soon extinguished.

Forger Sent Up for Ten Years.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 11.—George A. Vincent, alias Charles Perrin, the noted bond forger, arrested in this city last March while trying to obtain $6,500 from the St. Louis National bank by means of a forged letter in credit, has been found guilty of forgery and sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary. Vincent while in Sing Sing in 1877 set fire to the prison and escaped to England.

POWER OF THE MACE.

LIVELY TIME IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,

Showing That if the Members Have No Respect for Persons They Reverence Official Insignia—The River and Harbor Bill Set Aside.

WASHINGTON CITY, Feb. 10.—The house was thrown into great excitement and confusion by the action of Deputy Sergeant-at-Arms Hill and the arbitrary rulings of Mr. Blackburn, the temporary speaker. The contest between the committees on appropriations and river and harbors had aroused much bad feeling, because the friends of the river and harbor bill believed that if the bill was laid aside it would not have another chance for passage. The appropriation committee had defeated them in the preliminary skirmish, and the decisive vote was about to be taken, when White of Kentucky, rose to a question of personal privilege, and was proceeding to deny that he was responsible for the delay of the river and harbor bill, which seemed to him to have been intimated by Willis of Kentucky. Acting Speaker Blackburn ruled him out of order, and directed him to take his seat. Exclamations of dissent on the Republican side from the ruling encouraged White to persist in talking in spite of the speaker. Nothing that he said could be heard on account of the general confusion. There were cries of "Order!" from the Democratic side, and the incessant pounding of the gavel. At least fifty members were on their feet, and the confusion was increasing, when the speaker ordered the sergeant-at-arms to restore order. Deputy Sergeant Hill walked up the aisle to Mr. White and ordered him to be seated. White declined, and when Hill seized him by the shoulders and attempted to push him into a seat, White forcibly resisted.

In the meantime several Republicans in the vicinity protested against the seizure of White by a person bearing no insignia of office or emblem of authority. Hill quickly released White, hurriedly returned to the right of the speaker's desk, and took the mace which is the symbol of his office, and walked toward the position occupied by the unruly Kentuckian. It was amusing to observe the celerity with which White and all other members dropped into their seats when the officer with the mace approached. When the mace had been returned and order restored, White again arose to a question of privilege, and protested against the action of Hill in laying hands upon him without bearing any evidence of his authority. He read from the rules bearing upon the question, and wanted to proceed; but, in the midst of exclamations of dissent on the Republican side, Blackburn ruled him out of order. Judge Kelley, of Pennsylvania, arose and solemnly protested, saying that he personally witnessed the outrage of which the gentleman of Kentucky had a right to complain. The big voice of Blackburn and the noise of his gavel drowned the voices of the others, and the clerk proceeded to call the roll upon Townshend's motion to take up the postoffice appropriation bill. While that was going on, some of the Republicans put their heads together and talked the matter over with White in an excited manner. Half an hour later White again arose, and caused the journal relating to himself and the deputy sergeant-at-arms to be read. He declared that if the speaker had the right to suppress a member in such an arbitrary manner while the member was exercising his representative rights on the floor, he might with equal propriety follow the tyrannical example of Cromwell toward the long parliament. Blackburn gruffly ruled White out of order and declared that Hill had acted under his direction to preserve order. White appealed, but Blackburn refused to entertain the appeal, affirming that he had lost the right of appeal by failure to do so when he was ruled down in the first instance.

Proceedings in Congress.

WASHINGTON CITY, Feb. 10.—The senate Monday gave its concurrence to the committee amendments to the house bill to prevent the unlawful inclosure of public lands. When the anti silver-coinage bill came up, Beck urged the redemption of the trade dollar, but opposed the proposition to suspend coinage of the standard dollar. The senate sustained the presiding officer in his ruling that the amendment proposed to the pension appropriation bill was not in order.

The house of representatives spent an hour in committee of the whole on the river and har bill, refusing to appropriate $250,000 for Vicksburg and declining to forbid the repair of private levees at New Orleans at public expense, and then probably killed the measure by dropping it for the postoffice appropriation. Ryan called attention to the fact that but nineteen legislative days of the session remain, and that only one of the thirteen general appropriation bills has gone to the president for his approval.

Bank Robber Committed.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 10.—Joseph Howard, alias Kilrain, a notorious bank burglar, was brought before Magistrate Smith Monday. He gave his name as Howard, residence, 24 Irving place, New York city, and his business as that of a speculator. Capt. R. J. Linden, superintendent of the Pinkerton Detective agency, testified that Howard was wanted at Coldwater, Mich., to answer the charge of robbing the bank of that place of $10,000 in bonds. He was committed to await a requisition from the governor of Michigan.

Chinese Forts Destroyed by the French.

PARIS, Feb. 10.—Gen. Briere de Lisle telegraphs the government as follows: "Friday and Saturday we destroyed five forts belonging to the Chinese. The enemy had evacuated them without fighting. In the forts we found immense stores of provisions, gun-powder and other ammunition. We reconnoitered twelve kilometers, and found the Chinese retreating hastily toward Lang-Son. Our losses during the engagement were twenty-one killed and 162 wounded."

Bulldozing a Juror.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 10.—The jury in the Murphy murder case had not agreed up to 6 o'clock Monday night, and were discharged. The jury stood eleven for acquittal and one for conviction—a negro named Edwards. Edwards has made a statement to the press saying that every means were used to make him change his vote and while he was confined some friends of Ford told his wife they would kill him unless he acquitted the prisoners.

VIENNA, Feb. 10.—During a ball at Witkowitz, Bohemia, Monday night, a dynamite cartridge exploded, shattering a stair-case and wounding several people.

The Art of Getting Vigorous

Is comprised in one very simple piece of advice, improve digestion. No elaborate system of dietetics is needed. If you lack vigor, use systematically that pleasant promoter of it, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. If you take this hint, and do not commit any excesses, there is no reason why you should not gain in strength, appetite and weight. Hosts of whilom invalids are to-day building a foundation for years of vigorous health with this sound and thorough renovator of a dilapidated physique and failing energy. Dyspepsia is eradicated by it, and the constitution fortified against disorders to which if it were exposed, it must surely succumb—notably malarial fever. Rheumatism, inactivity of the kidneys and bladder, nervousness, and their various symptoms, disappear when it is used with persistency, not abandoned after a brief and irregular trial.

THE ALASKA'S TRIP.

AN EVENTFUL VOYAGE ACROSS THE ATLANTIC.

At the Mercy of the Waves Without a Rudder, and Three Hundred Souls on Board—Severe Weather in Both Cases.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—The big steamship Alaska was towed up to her pier Monday. The broken capstan at the stern was the only sign on deck of the dangers she had passed through. Her rudder-post was broken sharp off close to the hull. The Alaska brought over 73 first-cabin, 59 second-cabin, and 158 steerage passengers. Among the passengers were Henry George, the Compte F. de Goutant-Biron, the Marquis Manuel de Peralta, Sydney Rosenfeld, and Dr. B. Newton. Dr. Newton said he had made thirty trips across the Atlantic, and this was the most eventful one of all. He said: "The rudder broke at 7 o'clock on Tuesday morning, Feb. 3, as the westerly gale that had been raging since Jan. 27 moderated. A few minutes after the rudder broke the vessel swung into the trough of the sea and rolled terribly. We are told that something had happened to the steering-gear, but were kept in ignorance of the exact nature of the accident until the evening. The vessel lay over on her beam ends so that it was difficult to walk on the decks. Attempts were made to improvise steering-gear, but they failed. Many of the passengers appreciated the danger we were in, and became thoroughly alarmed. They staid up all night so as to be ready for any emergency. The steerage passengers were not allowed on deck. The weather was exceedingly cold, and pieces of ice kept falling from the shrouds. At times the waves broke over the deck. Matters were not improved on Wednesday. The vessel was still on her beam ends, and if a storm had come up nothing could have saved her. It was fortunate that the rudder broke just as the storm was moderating. The sailors were severely injured by various accidents. During Wednesday the passengers became more and more alarmed. All attempts at steering were abandoned, the engines were stopped, and Capt. Murray determined to wait until help should arrive. That day the vessel drifted back fifty-eight miles. About 8 o'clock that evening the lights of the steamer Lake Winnipeg were sighted. Capt. Murray ordered rockets to be sent up. These rockets carried bombs which burst with a tremendous explosion, but the Winnipeg gave no sign that she had seen or heard them. The captain then ordered a fire to be lighted on the deck at the stern. The deck was of iron, and when the fire was built of rags soaked in oil it made a tremendous blaze, and extended the width of the deck. It was a very impressive sight indeed, one of the strangest sights I have ever seen. The Lake Winnipeg saw it, and, thinking we were on fire, bore down upon us. When she came within hailing distance there was an affecting scene among the passengers. The ladies were entirely overcome. Two heavy chain cables were drawn over the stern of the Alaska to the bow of the Winnipeg. This was accomplished by 4 o'clock the next morning, and the Alaska started ahead. The Winnipeg was directed by flag signals from the bridge of the Alaska how to steer. At midnight of Friday, during a severe gale, the cables parted, and the ship was once more at the mercy of the elements. At daylight the Winnipeg was again taken in tow, and we made port without further accident."

Incoming vessels continue to report terrific gales on the Atlantic, and consequent damage to shipping and loss of life. The schooner Charles H. Haskell was nearly wrecked in the storm of Jan. 29. Her decks were swept by huge waves for twenty-four hours. One man was washed overboard and lost. The captain was severely injured and the rest of the crew suffered greatly from frost-bites, all being lashed to the rigging. Capt. William Smith, of the steamer Yesso, said the storm that struck his ship, which left Sunderland on Jan. 16 for Baltimore, and which put into New York for repairs, was the worst he had ever seen in the thirty-three years he had sailed. "I had twenty-six men," he said. "The poor devils clung to the rigging and the sides of the ship to save their lives, with icicles dangling around as big as my leg. The steam steering-gear broke; the waves smashed two decks, broke the foremast, and smashed the boats."

The Chicago Election Frauds.

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—The trial of the Eighteenth ward election conspirators continued before Judge Blodgett Monday. S. P. Wright, a printer, testified that the defendant, Mackin, came to him on Nov. 21 with a Republican ticket and asked him to make a duplicate of it and keep the matter quiet. The name of Rudolph Brand for senator was written over that of Henry Leman and Leman's name erased with ink. Witness had the ticket head engraved and printed 3,000 tickets, delivering them to Mackin at his room in the Palmer house.

The Clergy and the Roller Rink.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 10.—The Presbyterian Ministers association, at their meeting Monday considered the subject of roller skating rinks. A paper prepared by the Rev. J. T. Gibson, was read and adopted as the sentiment of the association, and ordered printed in the church papers. The reverend gentleman enters a most vigorous protest against the skating rink and earnestly exhorts all Christians to cease following the multitude unthinkingly.

St. Louis Ore and Steel Company.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Feb. 10.—In the United States circuit court, Monday, Judge Treat overruled the exceptions to the receivers' and masters' reports in the case of R. M. Olyphant against the St. Louis Ore and Steel company. He held in so doing that if the receiver had inadvertently enhanced the value of property, which he ought not to have changed, the party benefited thereby has no equitable ground of complaint.

Reinforcements for Egypt.

LONDON, Feb. 10.—It is estimated that the reinforcements to be sent to Egypt will number 10,000 men.

The war office is informed of a shipment of several thousand rifles and a quantity of ammunition from France intended to be conveyed to El Mahdi from some African port.

The labor crisis in France is causing the utmost alarm. There are at present 300,000 unemployed men in Paris, and 1,000,000 more in the provinces. Documents of the most inflammatory character have been circulated.

It is rumored in railway circles that impending changes in the St. Paul road may lead to the absorption of the Fargo Southern, and that Hugh J. Jewett is likely to transfer from the Erie road to the Vanderbilt lines the business of the Chicago & Atlantic and the Hamilton & Dayton.

WILLING TO REALIZE.

An Ohio Young Lady Marries a "Professor" Who Values Her at $20,000.

BUCYRUS, Ohio, Feb. 9.—This place, during the past week, has been the scene of a domestic sensation. The heroine is Miss Rebecca Kearsley, the only child of Mr. E. R. Kearsley, ex-auditor of Crawford county, and one of the wealthiest and best respected citizens in it. Miss Kearsley is a rather handsome girl of 18, who attained her majority last November, at the same time coming into possession of $80,000, left her in the will of her grandfather, which, in addition to her father's bequest, would make her entire inheritance $150,000. Three weeks ago a dudish-looking young fellow named Osborne obtained employment at the skating rink, and was ornamented with the title of "Professor." Miss Kearsley was seen with him on the streets once or twice but this attracted no attention at the time. There was no suspicion of any marriage nor any knowledge of it until Monday last and it was only developed then by the return made by the minister who performed the ceremony, the return being to the probate court. It would seem that on Saturday or Sunday night, when the elopement took place, Miss Kearsley retired to her room as usual and went to bed. About 12 o'clock that night she rose and dressed herself, took her shoes in her hand, went softly down stairs, met the skating rink professor by a preconcerted arrangement, and the pair at once went just across the line into Wyandot county, where they were duly married. Miss Kearsley returned at 4 o'clock the same morning, and went to bed as if nothing had happened. The discovery of the marriage only became known a few days ago. Nothing is known of Osborne's antecedents. Miss Kearsley's guardian, Col. Sterling, asked Osborne what sum he would take in cash to give up all claim to his wife, and leave, never to return. His reply was that he would take $20,000, and is a pretty good key to the situation. The Kearsley's are members of the Presbyterian church, and financially and socially there are none in northern Ohio who hold a better footing.

EDITORIAL MARKSMANSHIP.

Lee Linn, of Wabash, Ind., Puts Two Bullets Through an Assailant.

WABASH, IND., Feb. 9.—Lee Linn, editor of The Wabash Courier, was accosted Saturday by William Hickey, of Chicago, whose home was formerly in Lagro township. Hickey told him that he would cut his heart out. Mr. Linn warned the man to keep his distance, and walked nearly a block, Hickey following close at his heels and cursing him. Turning on his pursuer Mr. Linn quietly admonished him to keep away. Hickey, disregarding the advice, rushed upon Linn, who drew his revolver and shot him twice, both balls taking effect in his right lung. In spite of the severity of the wounds Hickey walked fifty feet. He was subsequently removed to the city hall, where surgeons examined him and pronounced his injuries fatal. Hickey declined to see a friend who wished to offer spiritual advice. Afterward he was removed to a hotel. There was no provocation for the attack save an assault committed by Hickey on Linn last November, in which the latter shot at the former, who entered the office with the avowed intention of killing Linn. Subsequently Hickey apologized, but later he threatened again to kill Linn.

An inquest was held, Sunday afternoon, on the body of Hickey, who died early Sunday morning from the wounds received Saturday. The testimony all went to make a case of self defense for Mr. Lynn. The verdict to be rendered will be justifiable homicide. Hickey's remains were interred at Lagro.

The Alaska Arrives Safely.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—The Guion line steamship Alaska, which sailed from Liverpool Jan. 24, was sighted off Fire Island at 1:10 p. m. Saturday in company with the steamer Lake Winnipeg. When she passed the light ship she signalled that she had lost her rudder and requested the agents to send tugs to her assistance. She anchored about four miles outside of Sandy Hook and was there met by tugs, which towed her over the bar. She then steamed to quarantine, arriving at 8 p. m.

America's Pride

True American men and women by reason of their strong constitution, beautiful forms, rich complexions and characteristic energy, are envied by all nations It is the general use of Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic, which brings about these results.

It is not our custom to make any mention of articles advertised in our columns, but we do not hesitate to speak in high terms of the "Garland Stoves and Ranges." The manufacturers aim to produce the very best that can possibly be made, which accounts for the high reputation which they have obtained is the best in the world.

As a remedy for coughs and colds, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has never been qualled. Its name is a household word throughout the world.

DON'T FORGET

There is no infirmity so oppressive and burdensome to the human mind as that tired feeling of which so many complain on the approach of serious disorders. The depression and despondency of spirit attending this state are immeasurable. That constant drain that is taking from your system all its former elasticity, driving the bloom from your cheeks; that continued strain upon your vital forces, rendering you irritable and fretful. DON'T FORGET, all of those ailments can be easily removed and permanently cured, by the use of Cassablanca's Sister.

The girl stood on the roller skates,
But then she could not go;
She was afraid to tempt the fates
Because she wobbled so.
She called aloud, "Say, Chawley, say!
Do come; help me along!"
But Chawley went the other way,
Because his legs went wrong;
There came a crash—a thunder sound:
The girl, oh, where was she?
Ask of the giddy youth around,
Who viewed her hosiery.

—Mrs. Mary S. Peacock, residing with her daughter, Mrs. Margaret Douglas, on Rock Pariric, died on Tuesday, aged 89 years. The funeral will be held at 10 o'clock, to-morrow morning at the house the remains being taken to Johnstown for burial.

—The managers of the K-C-no rink offer a handsome pair of roller skates to be given to the lady representing the best character at the Guards' masquerade to-morrow evening, and we understand several young ladies will compete for the prize.

—Arrangements for the Guards' masquerad, have all been completed, and a large gathering may be expected. There will be many new and original costumes, and some very fine characters represented. The salvation army will be one of the many attractions.

—Mrs. John Long, residing on Benton avenue, 2d ward, died Wednesday morning, aged 88 years. The funeral procession will start from the house at 9:30 o'clock to-morrow morning, and the services will be held at St. Mary's church at 10 o'clock.

—The funeral of the late Albert M. Heath was held this afternoon from his late home, on Cornelia street, the Rev H. T. Lycbe, of All Souls church, conducting the services. The attendance sympathising friends was quite large. The remains were buried in Oak Hill cemetery.

—Last evening three or four large sleigh loads of the good people of the First M. E. church, took advantage of the excellent sleighing and drove out to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Austin, in the town of Centre, where the party took supper and spent a most pleasant evening.

—The snow blockade is at last raised, and trains passenger and freight, are now moving on all the roads passing through this city. This blockade commenced on Monday, and it was not until late Wednesday night that communication by rail was opened to Chicago. The trains are now moving on regular time.

—The seventh annual ball of the Bower City Rifles will be given at their armory to-morrow evening. The company have finally decided to make this a complimentary party for their friends and the members of W. H. Sargent post, No. 20, G. A. R. All persons holding invitations will be admitted free by presenting their invitations at the door. Anderson's orchestra will furnish the music.

—He was a countryman residing in one of the townships west of the city occupying one of the front row of seats in the music hall last night, and so completely was he captured by the Adamless Eden entertainment, that when the curtain dropped on the closing scene, he left the hall, leaving one of his overshoes. The shoe was returned at a late hour, and the crowd separated after "seeing a man."

—On Tuesday evening $60,000 worth of the Fish Bros. & Co.'s wagon works at Racine, was destroyed by fire. The Racine firemen suffered terribly from the cold, most of the men freezing their hands and feet. The new engine froze up before reaching the fire and Milwaukee was telegraphed for help. It was a bitter cold night, and it was with superhuman efforts that the fire was mastered before the works were totally destroyed.

—Has anybody paused a moment to think about the spring election that will soon rage in this city? There is said to be a hen in the first ward that threatens in due time to bring forth a complete brood of youthful shanghais.—City Times And how about the game birds of the fifth ward, Brother Wilson? Aren't you taking too much training time, giving youthful shanghais time to develope, thereby extending their "walks" to the heretofore undisputed territory of the "fifth," eh?

—Tilly Clay's Adamless Eden company drew a large audience at Lappin's music hall last evening, the gallery being packed, and nearly every seat filled in the dress circle and parquet. Excepting the trained dogs and pigeons by Catherine Nelson and the slack wire performance by Alice Clay, the entertainment possessed very little merit, yet there was a great variety of specialties produced in a-sort-of-free-concert-style which kept the large audience in good cheer until the close. Had the company contained a few artists possessed of some talent it might rank considerably higher.

—The funeral of the late George E. Richards whose remains were brought to this city from Oshkosh on Monday, took place at ten o'clock this morning, under the supervision of the Masonic order of this city. A number of relatives and friends of the deceased, residing in Chicago, including the wife and daughter of the deceased, arrived last night. The remains were taken from the undertaking establishment of Messrs Britton & Kimball, direct to Oak Hill cemetery, where the services were conducted in accordance with the Masonic ritual, Rev. C. M. Pullen, of Christ church acting as chaplain. The following gentlemen were pall bearers: Messrs D. C. Ward, J. F. Draper, Fenner Kimdall, W. W. Wills, A. S. Leo and John W. Peters.

—The dreadful disease known as "glanders" has made its appearance among the horses of Stephenson and Winnebago counties in Illinois. The Rockford Gazette says: "Dr. N. H. Paaren, the state veterinarian, is soon to visit this city for the purpose of examining several cases of diseases among animals, supposed to be glanders. He is an officer of the state and his presence is desired before diseased animals are killed in order that the owner may get some remuneration. Dr. Paaren is at present in Freeport, where he was called to see a sick horse with the glanders, the property of John F. Turner, about three miles east of Freeport, where the doctor named went to see it yesterday afternoon. He found three horses afflicted, and all of them were ordered killed by Veterinarian Paaren These were the only cases of this disease he ever know of in Stephenson county.'

Municipal Court.

Charles Smith and James E. Wemounte were arraigned to-day before the municipal court on information filed against them by the district attorney, charging them with assault with intent to rob. Smith and Wemoute are the darkies who were arrested a few weeks ago at Beloit for assaulting and attempting to rob Mrs. Wilson who kept a candy store and restaurant at that place. Mrs. Wilson is recovering very slowly from the effect of the blow she received at that time and will not be able to appear and testify in court for some time, and for that reason the case was adjourned until March 10th next. J. W. Sale Esq. has been retained by the defendant Smith, and on the defendant Wemoute's statement that he had no means to procure counsel, the court at his request appointed Cornelius Buckley, of Beloit, to defend him.

The Rice brothers, whose examination was adjourned to this afternoon, were brought in, and it being impossible to procure the necessary witnesses, the examination was adjourned to Monday next at ten o'clock. The defendants have engaged B. F. Dunwiddie, Esq., to defend them.

Roller Rink Etiquette.

On entering the rink, stand in the door and remove your wrappers, meantime calling the attention of your companion to the wobbling figure of some amateur, and giggle audibly over his or her antics. If your companion fails to discover which person you refer to, designate with your index finger. It is bound to attract attention and folks will know you are present.

Be careful, when you are ready to put on your skates, to hunt up a seat where some one has left a hat, and seat your partner down upon it. If she has neglected to put sufficient color upon her complexion before she started, it will come to her cheeks in abundance when the owner of the hat politely speaks to her about it.

In oiling your companion's skates, in case the oil boy should be temporarily busy, hold her skate upon your knee to give the oil a fair chance to run through and onto your pants. It will cause remarks, if nothing more.

In skating, should your companion fall, stand and look at her a few seconds and allow her to gather her senses, and also to see if she can get up alone. It never fails to amuse the audience.

If you are skating in a certain direction don't alter your course, nor change your orbit, under any circumstances. Should a collision ensue on account of this, get up smiling and say it was not your fault, you did not get in the other's way.

Should yourself and companion fall simultaneously, be careful to walk up and down her back hair and get your skates tangled in her dress, laughing all the time.

If you desire to spend a few quiet moments in exhibition, or practice of graceful and unique evolutions, and high-kicking, select some crowded place where skaters move continuously, and there jab each foot alternalty into the air and swing on the other, cutting didos and funny business generally. It will not only improve your skating, but the hurrying throng may run over you and stick a skate roller in your ear.

Should the bell ring for "stop skating" take a few whirls around the rink anyway. It will show that you are either solid with the manager, or that your breeding has been neglected, and you ought to be taken by the ear and led out.

Should you stop in the midst of the whirl to whisper something to a friend, don't fail to pick yourself up real quick as soon as you have stopped spurrying along the floor on your shoulders blades.

By carefully avoiding obeying these rules you will make skating more pleasant for those about you.—Ex.

THAT REPORT.

Something for the People to Read and Consider.

At the November meeting of the county board of supervisors, after considering the reports of the county superintendents of the poor,—which reports the superintendents insisted in presenting in a form contrary to repeated requests of the board—the supervisors passed the following order, which was drawn by Mr. Morgan, or under his advice he giving members of the county board and others to understand, by the most emphatic language possible for a gentleman to use, that it was high time an officer was elected that would make a report that the people could readily see how the money of the county was expended. The order appointing the county agent is as follows:

"That on and after January 1st, 1885, Sylvester Morgan be and is hereby appointed the general purchasing agent for Rock county for all supplies for its poor and insane, including fuel, stationery and all necessary supplies for the county of Rock, at a salary of $100 per year. And it shall also be the duty of said Morgan to file with the clerk of the board of supervisors on the first of each month, an itemized statement of all monies paid by him for such purchases, and all sums of money raised for such purposes shall be at said Morgan's disposal on and after the above named date, but the aforsaid Morgan shall before entering upon the duties of this office file a good and sufficient bond not less than $20,000.

We here append the January report of the county purchasing agent, that the readers may judge how near the resolution has been complied with, simply adding that it is almost identical in form to the reports made by the county superintendents for years past, with the exception that with this report, not one voucher of moneys expended has been filed with the report.

Janesville, February 7, 1885.
S. MORGAN, County Agent.

There are items indicated in the above report that many people of this city are interested in, and would like to know the price paid, and will know, although we understand that the agent claims he is not obliged to make it public; there are items indicated in the report that the farmers of Rock county will demand to know the price paid, and the gross amount for an unmeasured crib of corn will not satisfy them—this they will also find out in due time. Beloit, and the whole county is interrested in the expenditure of the public money, and if the board appointed the county agent for the reason that they suspected something wrong with the reports of the county poor superintendents, then they demand that a more definite report be made by said agent, or at least a report fully complying with the law. We have marked with asterisks (*) such items in the report as, perhaps, comply with a clear interpretation of the order creating the office, and as intended by the board of supervisors at the time, and as explained to us and others at the time the county agent received his commission. The balance of his report is what he condemned in others, and what the taxpayers will condemn in him.

We do not believe the board of supervisors ever dreamed the county agent would present such a document after the conversation had with him in relation thereto.

The Weather.

At seven o'clock this morning the thermometer indicated 16 degrees below zero. Clear with west wind. At one p. m. the register was 2 degrees above zero. Clear, with west wind. For the corresponding hours one year ago the register was 17 and 26 degrees above zero.

Prentice & Evenson, opposite postoffice sell German asthma cure.

Romany Rye.

This pleasing spectacular drama was produced before a Janesville audience for the first time, at the opera house last evening. The plot is above the average for this class of plays and is well sustained by an evenly balanced company of more thra ordinaay merit. Some of the situations are difficult, but the manner in which they are handled is evident that the characters are well up in their various roles and equal to the occasion.

The leading attraction however, is the scenery, which in effect surpasses anything that has ever been produced on the opera house stage. People who have enjoyed the Batrle of Gettysburg painting will note a perspective very similar except on a more limited scale, in the Romany Rye production. The Gypsy camp moonlight scene, and storm at sea, are beautiful and well worth the price of admission. One noiceable feature of the entertainment, was the stage management, which is perfect; no tedious waiting between scenes. The company will appear in the same play again this evening and will no doubt have a crowded house.

Peck's Bad Girl.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Feb. 12.—Eva Peck, aged 17, an adopted daughter of Charles Buckingham, of Huntington, and Martin Wagner, aged 19, a farm hand, were arrested at the depot in this city Wednesday morning. The couple eloped from Huntington Tuesday night, walked to the city, a distance of nine miles, and were about to take the train for Turner's Falls to be married. Each had a large trunk, which had been sent on ahead. Before leaving, Wagner stole $50 in cash from Mr. Buckingham, $25 of which has been recovered. Miss Peck is a bright, attractive girl, and Wagner rather a boyish-looking German.

Identifying Fraudulent Ballots.

CHICAGO, Ills., Feb. 11.—The trial of the Eighteenth ward election conspirators was continued Wednesday. Ten voters of the Second precinct testified to voting the straight Republican ticket. They gave their numbers and the ballots being produced were shown to be forgeries and contained the name of Rudolph Brand for state senator in place of Henry Loman for whom they voted. Le Grand Odell identified the handwriting of the forged tally-sheet as that of W. J. Gallagher, one of the defendants.

Business Troubles.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—Harris & Janes, bankers at St. Genevieve, Mo., have made an assignment. Mr. Harris was also engaged in copper mining and smelting, and valued his real estate at $300,000.

MADISON NOTES.

Special to the Gazette.

MADISON, Feb. 11.—So far this week the sessions in both assembly and senate were so thinly attended that roll calls were dispensed with, most of the members being blockaded.

A bill has been introduced in the senate, by Mr. Hulburt, providing that when a verdict of a jury is received by the court on Sunday or a legal holiday, judgment shall be entered on such verdict.

A bill has been passed authorizing the burial at public expense of any honorably discharged ex-union soldier, sailor or marines of this state, who shall die not leaving sufficient means to defray such expenses.

Resolutions were adopted complimenting the dairymen of Wisconsin on their fine exhibit at the New Orleans exposition.

Last evening, Prof. Freeman lectured before a small but appreciative audience, at the M. E. church, on the subject of "Italy." Those who braved the chilly atmosphere to be present, considered themselves well paid.

This evening Prof. Bell lectured before the public in the assembly chamber on "deaf mute instruction."

The students of the university have organized a fire company. The Regents have supplied them with three first class hose carts. There are sixteen members in the department, divided into three divisions; a system of alarms has been introduced into the members' houses and the boys are just aching for a fire. Although this looks a trifle like shutting the door after the horse is stolen, nevertheless it is a step in the right direction.

The great society event of the season will be Inter-Fraternity party to be given at assembly hall Friday evening next, by the members of the Greek letter fraternities of the university.
